

Personal C.V. Website

Display professional and educational experience for Corey Wisser in an impressive and very personalized format. Provide in depth descriptions of experience in the IT field. Cover course work and certifications related to IT in great detail with explanations of skills and knowledgebase. Show a personal touch to the information in a way which can not be shown in a regular resume. Allow future employers to have insight into my education and work experience in a more impressive and interactive nature.

Personas

Future employers – Representatives of companies who I interview with who want to see what I know and learn more about me as a prospective employee.

Resume Critique – Professional development professionals who help review my resume materials and aid in creating a better representation of myself. (a good place to expand on items in my resume)

Myself- In the end this site is supposed to be the best exhibition of my abilities and attributes. The site should reflect myself clearly and professionally in an interesting way.

Comps

LinkedIn

handshake monster

